Anger over parcel office hours cuts

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

ANGRY postal workers have slammed a move to close a parcel collection office three hours early – accusing Royal Mail of putting profit before service and their jobs at risk.

The Communications Workers Union has condemned the move, without any consultation, to close the Haverhill Callers Offices at 2pm, three hours earlier, from August 24.

Callers offices are where members of the public can visit to collect items of mail, such as parcels and items that require a signature. The main reason for this is because the customer was not at home when delivery was attempted.

Royal Mail employs just under 50 people at Haverhill, with postmen already under pressure to complete rounds at a speed of 4mph. One angry staff member, who asked not to be named, said morale was at rock bottom and the change seemed illogical as surveys had shown early afternoon was the busiest time of day at the collection office.

Steve Butts, local spokesman for the Communication Workers Union (CWU), said: "This plan doesn't make any commonsense, the customers that need to visit the callers office are there mainly to collect postal packets."

Summer fun for all in holidays

SCHOOL may be out but that has not stopped many youngsters having plenty of fun on school grounds where a holiday playscheme is in full swing.

Inflatable football and golf were just some of the activities on offer at the Haverhill Summer Fun playscheme, which is operating for three weeks at the Castle Manor Business and Enterprise College site in Eastern Avenue. A wide range of indoor and outdoor activities are provided, plus visits from outside groups, including a reptile experience.

The playscheme has been run in the town for 21 years solely by volunteers and is registered to cater for 99 children a day aged under 8 and 120 aged between 4 and 13 years.

Organisers are currently investigating the possibility of the scheme covering other school holidays.

Have a say on housing partnership

FREE fish and chips are being used to encourage tenants to book their "place" at a special event.

Havebury Housing Partnership is inviting local tenants to the event on Saturday when they will have the chance to give their views on how the organisation will be regulated, while enjoying a free portion of fish and chips.

The lunchtime session, to be held from 11am to 1pm at the Haverhill Arts Centre, will be run by Havebury's tenant board directors and feedback will be passed on to the Tenant Services Authority, as part of a national consultation.

This information will then be used to set the guidelines for housing associations nationwide.

Chair of Havebury's tenants' forum, Sandy Norris, said: "Havebury does far more than just provide people with housing."

"It works hard to offer the best possible services for its residents and to continue to achieve this we want tenants to become more involved."

"We would like to hear what they have to say on how Havebury should be run and this event provides the perfect opportunity."

To book a place at the event or for further information, contact Havebury's resident involvement advisor Ellie Darling on (01284) 722033 or email eleonor.darling@havebury.com

Councils join up to offer aid in recession

COUNCILS across Suffolk are joining forces to let hard-pressed residents know what expert help and advice is available to them as they feel the effects of the continuing recession.

A total of seven district and borough councils are urging people to get expert help with any financial problems they may be suffering as a result of the ongoing economic recession.

With the help of Government funding, they are launching a joint bid to highlight the information and support on offer to local residents, and are setting up a rent deposit scheme to enable people in financial difficulty to move into a rented home.

St Edmundsbury, Forest Heath, Babergh, Ipswich, Mid Suffolk, Suffolk Coastal and Waveney councils have between them gained a £60,000 Government grant from the recession impact fund for the campaign.

Mike Eaton, head of housing and benefits services at Suffolk Coastal, said on behalf of the partnership: "Our key message to anyone feeling the effects of the credit crunch is that they must not leave it too late to get the free help and advice that is on offer. The worst thing that anyone can do is to ignore their mounting debts.

"Taking early action is particularly important for anyone who is facing problems paying their mortgage or who have secured loans against their home that they are struggling to repay.

"Our campaign will stress that people need to talk to their lender as quickly as possible.

"We want to encourage people to take action that will control or manage any debts they have. Ignoring letters, bills or phone calls is a recipe for disaster, and there is help on hand to guide people through the potentially daunting and frightening maze they may feel they are now in."

For those with mortgages, there are national schemes that could assist them, such as Homeowners Mortgage Support, the Mortgage Rescue Scheme, or the Support for Mortgage Interest, while anyone renting their home may be entitled to housing benefits.

Other agencies, including the Citizens Advice Bureau, can offer specialist debt advice, and benefits are on offer to support those whose income has reduced or who have become unemployed.

Each council will also be setting aside £5,000 to fund rent deposit schemes to support those who need help to move into a rented home.

"The Hooper report of the future of Royal Mail made reference – that due to internet shopping there had been an increase in postal packet traffic. Yet instead of growing the service and its accessibility to the customer, Royal Mail plan to reduce the service on offer to the public, all on the basis of budget planning.

"Royal Mail in 2007, carried out a survey on the numbers that visited their callers office in Haverhill. These numbers accounted for over 50 - 60 visits each day during the period they now want to close. This would mean in any given week over 280 customers would be frustrated at not being able to collect their post.

"The CWU believe instead of reducing the service to the public, the service should be grown and callers offices should remain open longer, maybe even open for 7 days. Royal Mails current plan can only be described as half baked dogma."

A Royal Mail spokesman said: "As notified to customers, the opening hours of the callers office will change from 8am-2pm Monday to Friday with Saturday seeing no change on its 8am-12.30pm times.

"This is in line with customer usage, most efficient use of resources and also reflects the fact that a visit to the callers office is increasingly unnecessary nowadays because of the different ways to arrange re-delivery. This includes online, calling customer services or arranging delivery to a local Post Office for a fee of 50p."

Party for Ruby, aged 100

FIVE generations gathered last Saturday to celebrate the 100th birthday of a great-grandmother.

Ruby King's family hosted a party in the Palomino pub in Newmarket to mark her century.

Born Ruby Amy, she grew up in Haverhill and moved to Wickhambrook when she married Jack King.

She has lived in Newmarket's Rous Court for more than a decade. She has one son, Peter, and one daughter, Pat, and five grandchildren, seven great-grandchildren and two great-great grandchildren.

Ruby worked in a fireworks factory in Chedburgh and former colleagues were among those at the birthday party.

Pat said: "She is active and used to go walking every day until she broke her hip two years ago.

"She would walk up to the gallops to see the horses. She did that every day – rain, hail, sleet or snow."

Milestone: Ruby King.

The Rt Rev Nigel Stock, Bishop of St Edmundsbury and Ipswich, described Archdeacon Brierley as "inspirational to parishes and clergy in the west of Suffolk, a valued colleague and friend."

The archdeacon took up his role in Sudbury in 2006, but originally came from the Manchester area. He survived by his wife Gill and two grown up children.

Bike burglar disturbed

A MAN who was disturbed removing a bike from a garage threw it back into the garage, damaging a car inside.

The burglary happened at Hamlet Road, Haverhill, at around 10.30pm last Thursday, and the man then ran off and got into a white van which drove away towards Sturmer. The man is described as white, in his late teens, 5 ft 6 in tall, of small build with short black hair and stubble and was wearing blue jeans and a black shirt.

Calls in relation to this incident should be made to Pc Richard Oldroyd at Haverhill police on (01284) 774100.

Fears of delay for relief road

A LONG-AWAITED relief road to take more traffic out of the centre of Haverhill could be delayed by cuts to central government funding.

Cllr John Griffiths, leader of St Edmundsbury Borough Council, has slammed the cuts in the light of plans for hundreds of new homes in the district, including 1,000 at north west Haverhill.

Cllr Griffiths condemned the Government's announcement that it is reducing the amount of growth area funding to the borough by £800,000, from £5.9m to £5.1m.

He believes the cut in funding designed to support housing growth in St Edmundsbury will adversely affect the borough as well as the delivery of new homes for years to come.

As a designated growth area, St Edmundsbury is earmarked to provide thousands of houses.

Before they can be built,

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

infrastructure in the shape of roads – including the northwest relief road – employment, schools and the like must be put in place, using growth area funding.

Cllr Griffiths said: "We have been constructive throughout and indeed welcomed sustainable growth in the borough, but we must have the necessary infrastructure first.

"Reducing this funding at the same time as requiring us to provide yet more new homes is wrong headed, short sighted and unsustainable.

"By way of example, without the proper infrastructure in place, people living in and around these homes won't have enough local jobs, proper amenities and facilities or local schools for their children – but they may well have traffic chaos.

"We had earmarked the funding for three projects, North West Haverhill, Station Hill and the Suffolk Business Park in Bury St Edmunds, and this cut will limit the scope we have in supporting their delivery.

"This is no way to proceed and I call upon the Government to reconsider this short-sighted cut."

A spokesperson for St Edmundsbury said: "The council is discussing how to take forward the three schemes mentioned with the project promoters.

"Part of the discussion is about the infrastructure each scheme needs and when it needs to be delivered, for example roads, green spaces etc.

"If any of this money is taken away, it is going to have an impact on what we can offer as grant support, and the effect will be felt in how soon the schemes, along with the jobs and houses they bring, can start."

Banned drink-driver caught behind wheel

A MAN already banned from getting behind the wheel for drink-driving failed another breath test, a court heard.

Graham Sawyer, 29, escaped an immediate prison sentence from magistrates at Bury St Edmunds last week but was given a six-week prison term suspended for a year, and a three-year driving ban.

Sawyer, of Parr Road, Haverhill, admitted drink-driving at Newmarket on June 5, as well as driving while disqualified and with no insurance, for which he was fined £250.

Shini Cooksley, prosecuting, said Sawyer was stopped in High Street, Newmarket, by police officers who had seen him overshoot a road junction.

He smelled of alcohol and a test showed 87 micrograms of alcohol in 100ml of breath. The legal limit for driving is 35 micrograms in 100ml of breath.

He was still banned from driving for a drink-driving conviction in June 2008.

Claire Lockwood, for Sawyer, a site foreman at the Olympic stadiums in London, said he had reduced his drinking and a suspended sentence would give sufficient protection for the public.

Magistrates imposed an 18-month community sentence on Sawyer, who must also obey an 18-month supervision order, complete the Drink Impaired Drivers' Programme and do 70 hours of unpaid work.

Shops to improve fronts with aid

A SCHEME to breathe new life into shop fronts in an attractive Victorian conservation area in Haverhill has been launched – with grants on offer to brighten up the street.

Town centre manager Tina Hanks and Chris Rand, principal planning officer for St Edmundsbury Borough Council, began hand delivering application packs to each of the businesses in Queen Street on Monday, encouraging them to apply for grants that will make their premises appear more attractive and at the same time retain and enhance the historic character of the area.

The scheme aims to complement re-paving and enhancements already under way to improve links to the nearby new Tesco store, due to open this autumn.

The grants will pay for between 70 and 90 per cent of eligible works, up to a limit of £10,000 total cost, from a total budget of £50,000.

When applications close in the autumn, the results will be reported to the Haverhill Area Working Party, which will recommend which projects go ahead. The successful applicants will then have two years to complete the work.

Cllr Karen Richardson, Haverhill Area Working Party member said: "Queen Street traders have been through a lot of disruption with the enhancement work going on at present to create a pleasant retail quarter.

"We hope this scheme will offer individual and practical support, to be undertaken in their own time. It is an opportunity, not an obligation.

"They will need to do the work themselves and comply with planning policies, all of which is explained in their packs. I hope that we will see a strong uptake".

Mr Rand said value for money would be one of the main factors in deciding applications.

He said: "The scheme is as much about simple changes as big ones. For example some businesses may like to think about replacing their A-board with an attractive hanging sign.

"Maybe just some repairs and paint are needed, for example a plastic fascia above the door could be removed and the original moulding beneath could be restored and sign written.

"The design guide in the pack

Woman admits benefit fraud

A WOMAN who claimed council tax benefit for rental accommodation in Bury St Edmunds without revealing that she owned a property in Haverhill has appeared at Ipswich Crown Court.

Deborah Ellis, 51, of Old Rope Walk, Haverhill, pleaded guilty to an offence that on or about March 8, 2004, at Bury St Edmunds, she knowingly made a false representation to St Edmundsbury Borough Council with a view to obtaining council tax benefit for herself by failing to declare herself the owner of a property in Rope Walk, Haverhill, contrary to the Social Security Administration Act 1992.

Ellis was given a conditional discharge for 12 months and ordered to pay £75 towards prosecution costs within 28 days.

The court was told the offence came to light when a member of the council's staff cross checked benefit and council tax records.

Council tax benefit is means tested and claimants are required to declare all capital, including property owned.

Last week's Memories photograph, from our archives, showed members of a Samuel Ward school football team with their winner's trophy. It was taken in January, 1988.

Toby Hammond had no trouble recognising where it was taken and one of the people in the picture – Darren Chandler, who also featured on the front of the Weekly News last week with his daughter, Sophie.

David Tharby spotted himself in the photograph. He said: "I was very surprised to see a picture of myself in Memories. The picture is from 1990 and is of the winning under 14s Samuel Ward football team. We had just won the West Suffolk trophy, beating Castle Manor 7-1 in the final. A brilliant day.

"The picture was taken at Samuel Ward – on a cold day – and I'm on

Steven Byrne, Brian Pearce, Darren Chandler and Tony Reardon. "There would have been one more in the picture but he was still in hospital with a broken leg from the semi-final win – that was Garry Burgess." Mark Almond also recalled the picture and could name the players.

Fantastic flowers on way to stunning show

FLOWER arrangers from across the region will be heading to Haverhill soon for the fifth annual Floral Art Competition.

Haverhill and District Flower Club is hosting the event over the weekend of August 15 and 16 at the Haverhill Arts Centre.

It is a special year for the club, as it celebrates its 45th anniversary, but it also marks a milestone for the East of England Area Flower Arranging Association, which is celebrating its 55th birthday and for the National Association of Flower Arrangement Societies (NAFAS) as it marks its golden year.

Once again organisers will welcome competitors from many clubs across East Anglia, with the addition of a craft class increasing in the number of categories to seven.

The show will open to the public from 1.30-5pm on the Saturday and 10am to 4.30pm on the Sunday. The official opening ceremony will take place at 12.30pm on the Saturday.

Valerie Phillips, club secretary, said: "Our club is very grateful for the support received from our sponsors Haverhill Town Council and IFF.

"We are welcoming this year 22 exhibitors, staging around 50 fabulous displays.

"This year judging will be carried out by Lionel Clarke, an accredited NAFAS judge from the East of England Area."

Beautiful: last year's Best in Show winner.

Campaign results show a rise in drink-driving

MORE DRIVERS than ever are getting behind the wheel after drinking, according to the latest figures released by Suffolk police.

The results of the county's summer drink and drug drive enforcement campaign for June showed an increase of just under 6 per cent when compared to the figures from the same campaign in 2008.

The month-long campaign began on June 1 and saw officers across Suffolk conduct 919 breath tests. Of those tests 77 were positive, which equates to 8.4 per cent, with 34 of these more than twice over the legal limit.

This compares to the results from June 2008 where officers conducted 857 breath tests – 21, or 2.45 per cent of which were positive.

Of the 919 tests that were recorded, 262 were conducted on those aged 25 and under – 13 were positive, the equivalent of 5 per cent. A total of 657 were conducted on those over 25 – 64 were positive, 9.7 per cent.

Of 290 tests which were routine breath tests conducted on each party involved in road crashes, there were 11 drivers over the limit, which is equal to 3.8 per cent.

Chief Inspector Mike Bacon said: "I am disappointed the message is still not getting through. Over eight per cent of people checked have failed to act with consideration or acknowledge the greatly increased risks they face by drink driving.

"Those offending need to realise that they are not just putting themselves at risk but other innocent road users as well.

"Anybody convicted of drink driving will have a criminal record and could receive a prison sentence of up to 10 years, they could be banned from driving, fined heavily and even lose their jobs. Not to mention the possible loss of life.

"We want everyone to know that Suffolk police will not tolerate drink or drug driving and we will continue to carry out checks throughout the year."

Anyone who suspects someone of drink driving is asked to report them immediately to the police or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Thrill seeker set for China trek

Challenge: Jack Glennon out to help charity.

THRILL seeker Jack Glennon has already joined in the bull run in Pamplona and tried his hand at skydiving and next year he is off on the trek of a lifetime through China.

The 22-year-old sales manager has promised to raise a minimum of £2,850 in sponsorship in order to take part in the 10 day trek next March, which is in aid of the Have a Heart charity.

Jack lives at Chapel-went Road, Haverhill, and works at Jan Caville Furniture in the town.

Jack is hoping to raise as much cash as possible for the charity and the money will go towards funding Have a Heart projects in the local area helping vulnerable children and young people.

He said: "I have been on the lookout for a big challenge and I try to do something amazing at least once every year. This year was skydiving, last year was the bull run in Pamplona, Spain. I was blown away by the details of the charity and what they were doing. My trekking experience isn't the greatest sadly and for a usual party-goer, the training is going to be extremely demanding, but no doubt fully worth it.

"Trek China 2010 sounded like an amazing way to experience something completely different, unbelievably challenging, meet new people and help children in my local area who really deserve it."

Joanna Howarth, the local Have a Heart charity manager said: "It's a real commitment to take part in Trek China 2010 and we are extremely proud of those taking part."

Store beauty advisor retires

AFTER spending 15 years handing out advice on skincare and perfume from behind a cosmetics counter, Shirley Williams is taking a well earned rest.

Amanda Pass, store manager at Boots in High Street, Haverhill, handed over flowers and gifts from colleagues to Mrs Williams, who is retiring from her job.

Many customers were amazed to learn that Mrs Williams had reached the retirement age of 65 and some thought she was getting married when they saw the good luck banners across her counter. She is a walking advertisement for the products she sells and has attended many courses over the years run by Boots own brand No7.

Mrs Williams said: "I started off just doing No7, but everything else has just grown around me. I have had many people who have been coming to me for years. I will miss the customers and the people I have worked with. I do believe the products work and I have always used them myself. I have always received samples of the latest ones to try, so I will miss that."

dancing, lots of arts and crafts activities, Poz the magician and the usual face painting and bouncy castle – and it is all free.

Cllr Lynsey Alexander, St Edmundsbury Borough Council cabinet member for culture and sport, said: "It is a great day out with loads of new things to try out."

"We have secured £20,000 a year for three years through Partners in Play Lottery funding to run this event, aimed at raising the profile of play and at increasing the opportunities for play in the borough.

"We are running the event in two locations to allow as many people as possible to come along."

"We hope that the children who come will enjoy it so much they will come back every year."

St Edmundsbury Children's Festival sponsors include Abbeycroft Leisure and Lego.

Helping hand for job hunters

JOBLESS young people in the region are being promised a helping hand under a new Government campaign.

Called Backing Young Britain, the idea is to persuade businesses and other organisations to team up with the Government and create thousands of employment opportunities.

Ministers have set up a £40 million Future Jobs Fund to pay for internships "so that graduates and non-graduates can get higher quality work experience".

A mentoring network is also being established to help young people find their feet in the jobs market, and 47,000 "youth jobs" will be provided for those unable to find work or training within a year of leaving school or college.

Organisations can help by:

- Working with a partnership to bid for one of the 100,000 jobs for young people from the Future Jobs Fund.
- Offering a volunteering place or a volunteer mentor for school or university leavers.
- Providing work experience places.
- Considering a young person for a job through a work trial.
- Offering an internship.
- Providing an apprenticeship for a 16 to 24-year-old.

Chris Mole, Parliamentary Under Secretary for Transport, said: "This scheme will not only give young people experience of the workplace, and keep their confidence up, but will help employers identify young people they might actually wish to take on."

£235k salary for region's NHS boss is 'staggering'

BY JOHN MORGAN

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

TRADE unions and an MP have condemned the "staggering" pay award handed to the region's top NHS executive – giving him a salary of at least £235,000 and a pension pot worth £2.4 million.

Sir Neil McKay, chief executive of the Fulbourn-based East of England Strategic Health Authority (SHA), saw his salary leap from the £215,000-220,000 bracket in 2007/08 to £235,000-240,000 last year.

Comparing the lower ends of the pay brackets, the rise in Sir Neil's pay comes to an inflation-busting 9 per cent.

Some of the rise comes from a performance bonus, but the authority said it could not provide a figure on the bonus.

Figures revealed in its draft annual report show seven other directors were paid £100,000 or more in 2008/09, receiving expenses payments of up to £4,000 on top of their salaries.

The authority does not provide any healthcare services. It defines its role as providing "strategic leadership" for the region's NHS.

Gail Cartmail, Unite assistant general secretary for the public sector, said: "These pay awards for the top executives of the SHA are staggering and show that the authority has entered the stratosphere of unreality."

Ms Cartmail said the salaries "send out entirely the wrong message when public sector employees in Cambridgeshire are being told that cuts to services are on the way".

Martin Booth, chairman of the Cambridge health branch of Unison, said: "Many of our members get less than £20,000 a year and the real cost of living for items like food and fuel is continuing to rise disproportionately."

"They will feel very angry and aggrieved at this astronomical pay rate and pay rise."

Mr Booth said staff at Hinchbrook Hospital, which the SHA wants to be run as a franchise, would be hit by its "plans for extending privatisation and outsourcing of services" and would be particularly angry at the level of salaries.

David Howarth, MP for Cam-

Inflation busting: Sir Neil McKay, chief executive of the East of England Strategic Health Authority, saw his salary leap 9 per cent.

bridge, said: "In an effort to understand if the SHA actually does anything worthwhile, I held a meeting with them, which just confirmed my view that it serves no useful purpose at all.

"The SHA is a completely pointless, extra layer of bureaucracy where some people clearly get extraordinarily high salaries.

"It should be done away with completely."

The value of Sir Neil's pension pot rose to £2.4 million at the end of the last financial year, compared to £1.75 million the previous year.

The authority said various factors can affect the worth of pensions.

Other big earners in 2008/09 include Dr Paul Cosford, the SHA's director of public health, who saw his salary rise to £155,000-160,000 from £125,000-130,000 the previous year – a rise of 25 per cent.

The authority said that rise was mainly down to back payments from a previous job.

A SHA spokeswoman said: "The salaries shown in the annual report also take into account non-recurrent payments, such as arrears or bonus payments, as well as basic salary."

"No bonuses were paid in 07/08, but were this year due to good performance in some key areas."

The SHA said the rise in directors' basic pay was 2.2 per cent in 2008/09, and was set nationally.

Once petrified of English lessons, stammerer is now teaching them

LOOKING down at the book, his mouth dry, Robert Coe felt physically sick. A teenager, in the midst of studying for exams, he was sitting in an English lesson. And he'd just been asked to read aloud.

"That was the worst thing. Absolutely the worst thing," remembers Robert, shaking his head. "I was scared stiff of English for that exact reason: because there was always a chance I'd be asked to read.

"It would take me about a minute to read one sentence. And the other kids used to take the mickey out of me, the way kids do... it got to the point where I didn't want to speak at all.

"I became more and more introverted. To be honest, by the time I was 16 I hated my whole life: I hated my life because of my stammer."

Robert, who lives in Cambridge, has stammered ever since he learned to talk. At times, he says the condition has been crippling.

Natasha, while wiping chocolate spread off her hands – it's clear he has learned to live with his stammer. And he has learned to control it too.

"I'll always have it," admits Robert. "But I have learned how to cope with it now. And I don't try to hide it either.

"One per cent of the adult population has a stammer: that means there are thousands of people who stammer in Cambridge alone."

Robert is the founder of a self-help group in the city, open to adults who stammer. He is also a trustee of the British Stammering Association and a supporter of The Dominic Barker Trust; set up by Dominic's parents, after he committed suicide because of his speech problems, it funds research into the subject.

"I want to raise awareness of stammering and the impact it can have on people," explains Robert. "I also want people to know they don't have to deal with it alone: there is support and help out there."

Robert's stammer developed when he was two years old, the same age Natasha is now. "It manifests itself in two ways," he explains. "There's the overt stammer: blocking on words which, in my case, includes me kind of locking my jaw. And then there's the covert stammer: knowing a problem word is coming up, stopping and choosing a substitute... that can make your speech slow and a bit disjointed."

Robert particularly struggles, he explains, with words that start with a vowel. But he didn't become self-conscious about his speech until he started school.

"Kids pick on people who are a bit different," says the 39-year-old, with a shrug. "They used to mimic me and yes, that was hurtful."

Sent for speech therapy at the age of 6, Robert's stammer seemed to improve.

But then, when puberty hit, his speech started a downward spiral.

"It was at that age when everyone starts having relationships," he remembers. "Everything was changing and my stammer started to get worse and worse. I became very quiet and avoided conversations as much as I could.

"That's when it became a psychological problem. I had a lot of time off school with different things; looking back, I'm sure I was suffering from stress."

Robert believes stammers begin as a physical problem, maybe "a slightly dodgy piece of wiring in the brain", which, if identified early, can be treated successfully. He also believes that, over time, a stammer can become a major psychological issue – which is far more difficult to overcome.

"By the time I left school my whole life was determined by my stammer," he continues. "Things which other people don't even think about were difficult for me: I used to hate using the phone, for example.

"I did quite well in my O-levels, but I hated school so much I left before doing A-levels. Stammering was so central to my life I chose to train as a draughtsman: I thought it would be all drawing and no talking."

Referred for more therapy, Robert then learned to slow his speech right down, starting by saying a single syllable at a time. His stammer improved and, his confidence buoyed, Robert decided to apply to university.

The story on stammering

STAMMERING is characterised by "stoppages and disruptions in fluency which interrupt the smooth flow and timing of speech".

Speech may sound forced, tense or jerky. People who stammer may avoid certain words or situations which they know will cause them difficulty.

It is not known what causes stammering but research seems to suggest that a combination of factors is involved; genetics are relevant at least in some cases. Stammering is not simply a speech difficulty but is a serious communication problem. For the child or adult who stammers it can undermine their confidence and self-esteem, and affect their interactions with others as well as their education and employment prospects.

It is widely accepted that 5 per cent of children under the age of five will go through a phase of stammering at some stage in their speech and language development. Up to a quarter of these children are at serious risk of developing chronic stammering (which may persist into adulthood without intervention during the pre-school years).

Figures on stammering in adulthood show that 1% of the adult population stammers – that's around 459,000 adults in Britain. Between three and four men stammer for every woman who stammers.

Fundraiser: Robert has just completed a 10k run in aid of the British Stammering Association.

Hull, where he studied leisure management, was "brilliant"; his confidence growing all the time, on graduation he set off to travel the world – spending a year in the States, a year in Australia and two years in Europe.

While living in Spain, unable to speak the native tongue, Robert took the only job he could find – as an English teacher. And, to his surprise, he loved it.

"Teaching foreign students, I had to speak slowly and pronounce every word really carefully," he explains. "It was good for me."

On returning to England, in 1997, Robert moved into marketing. Although he spent a decade in the job, he now says it wasn't the career for him.

"I met Samantha, my wife, in 2004," continues Robert. "But as my family life got better and better, my professional life became worse and worse."

"In the end I spoke to my GP about it; my GP sent me to a counsellor."

Encouraged by his counsellor, Robert decided to return to teaching English as a foreign language; after retraining, he found a job in Cambridge. "I love it," enthuses Robert. "I'd say that's one of my biggest achievements: I used to be petrified of English lessons, and now I teach them."

A keen writer, Robert also works for Local Secrets in Cambridge – a role which involves attending football matches, doing restaurant reviews and even conducting interviews. "As a teenager, I would never have believed I could do all this," adds Robert, with a smile.

After quitting marketing, in 2007, Robert took an intensive speech therapy course in London. As well as learning practical tips, such as breathing techniques, he realised the benefits of group therapy.

"It was great to be in a room full of people who understood," he says. "Stammering is described in terms of an iceberg: the bit you see, blocking on words, is just the tip of the iceberg – the rest, the anxiety, the stress of trying to avoid certain people and situations, is all hidden under the surface."

Robert went on to set up the Cambridge Self Help Group for Adults who Stammer: meeting once a month, at Chesterton Health Centre, it now has some 40 members.

Robert has also just completed a sponsored 10k run in aid of the Stammering Association: so far he's raised £400. His work for the association includes plans, supported by Education Secretary Ed Balls, to develop an early intervention strategy to help young children who stammer.

Robert's life is, he says, happier now than ever. He's got a job he loves, a family he adores and is passionate about all his volunteer work.

"I've learned so much," concludes Robert. "I've learned that things do get better; there is help out there."

"And I've also learned not to reflect too much on the past, but to live for the present – and look to the future."

Looking forward to a positive start to the season: Haverhill Rovers' Marc Abbott, left above and Joe Harvey, right.

Good luck Rovers!

Haverhill Rovers face their first match of the season this Saturday when they take on Dereham Town.

After finishing at the bottom of the Ridgeons League, Premier Division last term the team are hoping their first game on home soil at Hamlet Croft will get them off on the right foot.

Manager Peter Betts says: "We're really positive at the moment. We've won our first three pre-season games and training's been excellent."

"If we can go from being bottom of the league to a mid-table side and have a good run in the cups then it will be a very good progression."

The Rovers are starting the season with a new-look team following new signings of the likes of Danny Shipton who brings Blue Square South experience with him following a spell at Braintree.

Striker Lee Salmons is also a welcome addition from Premier Division Newmarket and attackers Scott Wilby and Brad Hickman are expected to help boost the team up the league table.

Centre-half John Winter is another new addition to the squad and Paul Abbott, Marc Abbott and Joe Harvey will all be keen to return to the turf now fully

Tribute bands to act up in market square

THEY are not quite Amy Winehouse and Take That, but two top tribute bands will be keeping the crowds cheering at the first of a series of open air music nights in Haverhill's town centre.

Miss Winehouse, Take That Again and Girls Aloud will take to the stage in the Market Square from 8pm on Saturday for the free event hosted by Haverhill Town Council.

Miss Winehouse pays tribute to one of the most recognisable icons of our time, with Valerie, Rehab and Amy's other instantly recognisable classics.

Girls Aloud are heading into their fifth successful year as the UK's premiere tribute to Girls Aloud. During that time, Girls Aloud have worked up and down the country, entertaining at venues, such as Butlins Holiday Parks, where they had a Saturday night residency in Reds for the 2006 and 2007 season, the Annual Truckfest in Peterborough, 3D Nightclubs, Pontins

BY JO DEEKS

Holiday Parks, numerous private functions, Christmas light switch ons and memorable one-nighters such as at Chatsworth

House, where they performed to over 8,000 people.

Girls Aloud are going from strength to strength, constantly updating their show to reflect the real Girls Aloud's ever changing sound and style.

Take That Again are the country's top tribute act to Take That and Robbie Williams, reunited for the first time and for one night only and arrive fresh from a summer tour of Ibiza.

Performing an outstanding tribute to the greatest hits of Take That and Robbie Williams they take audiences on a complete journey of the band, from A Million Love Songs to Never Forget right up to 2009 with Greatest Day, as well as paying tribute to the UK's most successful male solo artist along the way.

This show comes with distinctive dance routines and original choreography and costume changes, live vocals with harmonies to fully recreate the Take That magic. Take That Again have already stormed Europe and are now Back for Good and ready to Shine.

The next event will be Great Big Tribute Night 2, on Bank Holiday Saturday, August 29, with Angel Eyes and the Curvettes combining Abba hits and Tamala Motown hits from The Supremes, Four Tops, Marvin Gaye and Smokey Robinson.

Faking it: Miss Winehouse, above will be among the acts wowing the crowds at a free outdoor concert in Haverhill this weekend. Abba tribute act Angel Eyes and the Curvettes, left, take to the stage later in the month. CP Sell your property the CXG way...

Why sell the traditional way?

Get Estate Agents to value it and put it on the market.

Show people around the property (mostly "nosy parkers" & sightseers).

If no offers received after 2 or 3 months, reduce price.

Show more people around.

Eventually accept an offer at between 5 & 10% off the advertised price.

Hope the sale doesn't fall through (over 30% of sales don't reach completion).

Once price agreed, wait a further 3 months for sale to complete.

Work out how many £000s it has cost you in reducing the price, making mortgage payments, paying Estate Agents fees and legal fees since you started the process (on average, 7 months ago...)

The simple alternative

- Pay no Estate Agent's fees
- Pay no Legal fees
- No further mortgage payments
- Have cash within days (Instead of months)

USED car values are gaining strength, as the summer brings unseasonably strong demand, according to Glass's, publisher of Glass's Guide to Used Car Values.

Values for smaller cars are performing particularly well, the publisher states.

For example, the Fiat Grande Punto increased by around 15 per cent during June alone. Similarly, values for the likes of the Peugeot 206 and 207 remain very strong, with increases of 5-6 per cent.

"Used-car price increases are likely to remain a feature of the market for much of the rest of the year, largely due to stock shortages," suggests Jeff Paterson, chief car editor at Glass's.

Paterson adds that dealers are also seeing above-average levels of showroom traffic this summer, partly as a consequence of holidaymakers opting to stay in the UK rather than go abroad.

"There is evidence that some consumers, choosing to spend more of their holiday time in the UK, are venturing into used-car dealerships in a bid to find a vehicle to enjoy the summer in.

"This trend has brought a boost to almost all makes of drop-top over recent weeks, but we still expect to see values of convertible models easing as we progress into August.

"After all, dealers won't want to be holding on to stock just as the summer runs out."

Paterson says small and lower-medium cars are likely to remain in demand, ensuring that this end of the market remains the strongest in terms of residual values.

Elsewhere, used-car buyers are being warned to avoid 'gut reactions' when looking around for a small runaround.

"You might think, 'I'll buy a Ford or Fiat, because it will be cheap,'" says Matt Tunbridge, editor of Used Car Expert magazine. "Or you might think, 'a Volkswagen because it may be expensive, but won't lose much.'"

These are all reasonable guesses, says Tunbridge, but as Used Car Expert's latest depreciation index reveals, they can be completely wrong, depending on the specification choice.

One of the top picks, based on having had a heavy depreciation loss over the last 12 months, is the Volkswagen Polo which, says Tunbridge, is "bigger, safer and more refined than before, making it deservedly one of the better small-car buys".

Used Car Expert magazine prices a 2004 1.9 TDI with average mileage of 50,000 at around £4,850, having lost 34 per cent of its value over the last year.

Volkswagen Polo: Bigger, safer.

End of the road
for your vehicle?

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF)

Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle. That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.

What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD). A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer your responsibility.

We pay up to £100

Wonder Webb boosts Manor

DANIEL Webb helped Castle Manor scoop an Adams Harrison Midweek League double.

Having already wrapped up the Division 3B title, they comfortably held off Hundon in the League Cup final.

Webb proved pivotal taking 5 for 17 in a deadly spell that left Hundon on 99 chasing 127 for 5.

However, Martin Buckner pushed him hard for the man-of-the-match award, scoring 27 and excelling behind the stumps.

In the league, the main winner was the rain which left several pitches unfit.

Mill Green stay in Division Two after beating Ashdon, thanks to James Marchant's unbeaten 57 and Dennis Willis' 4 for 10. The Division One title could go to either Horseheath, Haverhill or Sawston while the Division 3A crown is a straight fight between the Hundon sides.

Betts raring to get going

PETER Betts said there can be no excuses this season as he prepares for his first full season in charge of Haverhill Rovers.

Having finished bottom of the Ridges League, Premier Division at the end of last season, Rovers were fortunate to escape relegation thanks to a league reshuffle.

And boss Betts is determined his players grab their second chance with both hands and ensure there are no doubts about survival this time around.

"We've started pre-season early and have worked really hard," he said.

"The players and I know we're going to be judged on what we do this season so we're even more motivated to work hard and achieve what we want to."

Betts was appointed manager of Rovers midway through last season with the team struggling at the foot of the Premier Division.

Injuries and suspensions hampered his plans to lift the club up the table, but he knows there will be nowhere to hide if the team struggle in the coming months.

Marksman: Lee Salmons heading a goal for Newmarket last season. Now his new club Haverhill Rovers are hoping for more of the same during the coming campaign.

"There can be no excuses," he continued.

"There will be no second chances this time and we need to make sure we perform and do well to stay in the division.

"All the players are excited and although we've got a tough start against Dereham at home, after that we should be able to put some points on the board."

Among the new signings Betts has brought to Rovers are keeper Sean Greygoose, from Soham Town Rangers, Danny Shipton, John Winter and Lee Salmons, while Mark Abbott and Joe Harvey are due to return from injury in the next few weeks.

"It will be a big boost for everyone to have Mark and Joe back as they are two of our best players," added Betts.

"Hopefully, we'll have a good start to the season."

After Saturday's opener with Dereham at Hamlet Croft (3pm), Rovers face an away match at Wivenhoe on Tuesday, 7.45pm.

Robins' joy as he bobs up with a half-century

JOE Robins' unbeaten 57 was the highlight for Weston Colville as they won by eight wickets away to Kimbolton & Catworth in Division Two of the Tucker Gardner Cambs & Hunts Premier League on Saturday.

The opener carried his bat and received support from Geoff Curtis (21) in his side's tally of 95 for 2, with Lee Ingram snapping up 2 for 15. Kimbolton had earlier been skittled out for 93, with Matt Daniels (4 for 29) and Adie Westley (3 for 18) doing much of the damage. Charles Mear's 37 was the top score.

Robbie Ketteridge, above, helped himself to 5 for 29 and guided Horseheath to a convincing 112-run success at Wilbrahams in Division One of the CCA Senior League on Saturday.

The visitors batted first and were all out for 200, with Martin Giles striking 44 and captain Gary Ellis weighing in with 35.

Andrew Matley nabbed 3 for 29 and there were two wickets apiece for Matt Hall and Jamie Saunders.

Wilbrahams lost wickets at regular intervals throughout their innings as Ketteridge and Giles (3 for 21) did the damage, while George Moore top-scored with just 17 and the hosts were bundled out for 78.
